Who we are

We are a boutique consultancy specialising in service, product and business design, information, digital and technology. We help our clients transform their organisations and services. We have a diverse client portfolio across the public sector. Some of our most recent clients include large government departments, charities and technology companies.

We've grown steadily over the last few years, regularly winning high-profile work and getting plaudits for our delivery. We have an outstanding team of people and a high-performance culture.

Our tight-knit team have experience working within a range of industries and bring a diverse set of skills and experiences. Some of the qualities that make our people stand out include an ability to apply their skills and experience to a wide range of areas, to pick things up quickly, and to grapple with unknowns and ambiguity. We make the complex, simple.

The role

You'll work closely with all team members (and directly with the client's teams) to help our clients transform their organisations and the way they deliver services.

We look to rotate people around a variety of roles across our three main pathways of Analysis, Delivery and Business Partnering to help you shape your own career and so that you can build up the skills you will need to perform well – you will require a combination of analysis, delivery and business partnering skills.

As well as delivering high quality work for our clients, we want you to help us build the business, looking for opportunities where we can add value and thinking in an entrepreneurial and imaginative way.

Your skills, experience and personal qualities

You'll need to be well organised and good at working independently as well as with other people. A positive outlook, enthusiasm and willingness to learn are essential.

You'll be able to demonstrate to us how good you are at:

- Gathering and interpreting complex information from a range of sources.
- Presenting your findings and ideas (both verbally and in writing) in a structured way that sets out complex issues very simply and explains your logic.
- Being adaptable and responsive, thinking on your feet. You'll use a range of analysis techniques and tools (that you bring with you, or that you learn with us) to gain actionable insight into how to resolve problems and identify transformational business opportunities.
- Working with people to create innovative, workable ideas that can challenge the way that they see things.
- Utilising your organisational and communication skills to manage work in a fast-paced environment.
- Building relationships quickly with lots of people from different backgrounds.

This is a very exciting role for the right candidate who is passionate about problem-solving and curious about the world.

We can promise that the work will be varied and interesting and will give you lots of opportunities to develop and grow. We will help you learn and develop, and there is real scope for you to shape the future direction of the company, by leading teams and assignments, and taking responsibility for shaping our services, developing our ways of working and marketing what we can do.

In return, we will offer a competitive package, and the chance to work on cutting-edge assignments with our clients. If you'd like to kick-start the next chapter of your career, we'd love to hear from you.
